Absentee Voter Survey
November 2006

RANDOMLY ASSIGN RESPONDENT AS:
VERSION 1 QUESTIONNAIRE OR VERSION 2 QUESTIONNAIRE

Hi my name is _____ and I'm calling for the national television news organizations and the Associated Press. We are conducting a brief opinion survey. We are not selling anything. IF THE RESPONDENT SAYS THEY ARE ON THE DO NOT CALL LIST, SAY:

I understand your concern, but those laws apply to sales calls from telemarketing firms, and not calls made for research purposes. We do public opinion research -- it is not telemarketing and the laws you just mentioned do not apply to us.

National Election Pool Exit Polls
Conducted by Edison Media Research/Mitofsky International

Documentation for the 2006 General Election Exit Polls

I. Introduction

The National Election Pool (ABC News, Associated Press, CBS News, CNN, Fox News and NBC News) sponsored exit polls for the 2006 General Elections. The questionnaires were solely the work of the NEP. Edison/Mitofsky designed and conducted the exit polls for NEP. This document describes the exit poll datasets, explains how to access the data and how to interpret the column location documentation. It also includes information regarding the analysis of these data.

Attached are the following: a description of the “National Election Pool Exit Poll Methodology,” a list of state numbers and region codes, detailed column location information for each dataset, a map of the geotrata used in each state and the exit poll questionnaires in .PDF format.

II. Data Files

Thirty-three data files are available – the national survey dataset, and one dataset for each of the thirty-two states for which state surveys were conducted. Note that in 2006, as in previous midterm elections, statewide exit polls were not conducted in every state. The states with exit poll coverage in 2006 are:

Arizona, California, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

State surveys were not conducted in the District of Columbia and 18 states: Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, Colorado, Delaware, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, and South Dakota.

Because no statewide exit polls were conducted in 18 states as well as the District of Columbia in 2006, it is not possible to create a "combined data file" representing the results from all fifty states and the District of Columbia similar to the one generated in 2004 by combining the results from all of the state surveys. A combined data file that adequately represents the entire country can only be generated if statewide exit polls are conducted in all 50 states. The only national survey data available will be from the national survey which was conducted in a sample of 250 polling locations representing all fifty states.

III. All Surveys

The information in this section applies to the national and all of the state surveys.

a. Weights

Respondent weights are included with each data file. They can be found in columns 18 through 23 of each file. These weights should be applied in all analyses. Unweighted tabulations will be seriously misleading and should not be used. In the SPSS data file, these values can be found under the variable label WGT.

For additional information on weighting, see the methodology statement at the end of this file.

b. Backside Variable

One key variable, known as the "backside" variable, exists on all surveys that used a two-sided questionnaire. It can be found in column 16 in all applicable states. [Please note that some state surveys used a one-sided questionnaire and thus do not include the "backside" variable.] When BACKSIDE = 1, there was at least one response on the reverse side of the questionnaire, indicating that the respondent turned the questionnaire over. This allows the researcher who is analyzing a question that appears on the backside to omit respondents who did not turn the questionnaire over. For all respondents where BACKSIDE = 2, responses to any question that appeared on page 2 of the questionnaire are coded as system missing in the SPSS file and are blank in the ascii file.

c. Blanks/Omits

A blank represents an omit, or a non-response, to an item. However, a blank can also represent that the respondent was not asked the question.

To make sure that your results match those published by the National Election Pool, the attached files apply the following policies for coding omits:

1. On most demographic variables (such as age), all blanks have been set to a missing code in the SPSS files and appear as blanks in the ascii data.
2. On opinion variables (such as approval ratings), blanks are treated as "Don't Know" responses and are considered to be valid responses. They have been recoded as the numeral nine ("9") in the SPSS files and in the ascii data.
3. Some questions asked on the exit poll do not apply to or cannot be asked of absentee or early vote respondents. For these questions, absentee respondents have been set to a missing code in the SPSS files and appear as blanks in the ascii data. Affected questions are noted in each datafile's documentation.

Note, however, that different rules apply if the variable called BACKSIDE has a value of "2". If no questions were answered on the backside, all backside questions have been set to a missing code in the SPSS files and appear as blanks in the ascii data.

d. Language

In eight states, questionnaires in Spanish as well as in English were available in every precinct in which Hispanics represented 20% or more of the total population. Spanish language questionnaires were available in some precincts in Arizona, California, Florida, Illinois, Nevada, New Mexico, New York and Texas. In the data sets for these eight states and in the national data set, the variable SPANISHQ (column 112) indicates the language of the questionnaire the respondent completed.

e. Additional Items

These items, not on the questionnaire, were added to all data files:

Short Label	Description
BACKSIDE	Completed Backside of Exit Poll: (all states using a two-sided questionnaire) 1=Yes 2= No
CALL	Call Number: (Interviewers called in results three times during election day, this variable indicates the call on which a questionnaire was entered.) 1= First call 2= Second call 3= Third call 9= Absentee telephone survey
STANUM	State Number (See attached state list)
PRECINCT	EMR/MI Internal Precinct Number; this number does not match the official precinct name or number.
ID	Respondent ID number
WGT	Respondent weight
QTYPE	Questionnaire type: (Each state's datafile contains respondents from both the national and state questionnaires; The national datafile contains only national questionnaires.) 1 = State questionnaire 2 = National questionnaire
VERSION	Questionnaire version number (All state questionnaires are version 1; National questionnaires include versions 1 through 2)
SPANISHQ	Language of questionnaire 1= Spanish 2= English
CDNUM	Congressional district number

f. Urbanity Codes

As in previous years, precincts are assigned to urban, suburban, or rural classifications based on Census Bureau definitions of Metropolitan Statistical Areas (MSAs) and principal cities.

SIZEPLAC Size of Area (5 Categories)

- | | |
|---|--------------------------------------|
| 1 - Principal Cities over 500,000 | 4 - Principal Cities 10,000 - 50,000 |
| 2 - Principal Cities 50,000 - 500,000 | 5 - Rural |
| 3 – Suburbs (precinct is in an MSA but not in a principal city) | |

SIZEPLC3 Size of Area (3 Categories -- a regrouping of the five-categories in SIZEPLAC)

- 1 – Principal Cities over 50,000
- 2 – Suburbs (precinct is in an MSA but not in the central city)
- 3 – Small Cities/Rural

The two variables – SIZEPLAC, and SIZEPLC3 – retain the same coding structure that Voter News Service (VNS) used in previous years, but the codes were assigned using a different procedure. Edison/Mitofsky collected the ZIP code of each precinct in its state and national samples and matched that ZIP code to a data set that showed whether that ZIP code is assigned to a principal city or to another portion of an MSA and the population of the city or town that the ZIP code is assigned to. If a precinct falls within the central or principal city of an MSA, SIZEPLAC is coded “1”, “2”, or “4” based on the population. If it falls within an MSA but not in the central or principal city, it is coded “3”, and if it does not fall within an MSA, it is coded “5”.

Additional data is available from the Census Bureau at the ZIP code level, and to take advantage of this data, several experimental variables were added to the data set in 2006. The following four variables were developed by Keating Holland of CNN, using the ZIP code of each precinct as follows:

- ZCODE1 Urban/Suburban/Rural by Population Density
- 1 – Extremely High Density Urban – Any precinct in a zip code with a population density of more than 7,000 people per square mile
 - 2 – High Density – Any precinct in a zip code with a population density between 3,500 and 6,999 people per square mile
 - 3 – Suburb – Any precinct in a zip code with a population density between 200 and 3,499 people per square mile that is within 40 miles of a large city or within 20 miles of a small city
 - 4 – Town – Any precinct in a zip code with a population density between 200 and 3,499 people per square mile that is not a suburb.
 - 5 – Low Density Rural – Any precinct in a zip code with a population density between 50 and 199 people per square mile
 - 6 – Extremely Low Density Rural – Any precinct in a zip code with a population density of less than 50 people per square mile
- ZCODE2 Suburbs subdivided by data on age of housing stock from U.S. Census
- 1 – Urban – see SIZEPLAC
 - 2 – 60s Suburbs – Any precinct defined as suburban in SIZEPLAC in which the “median year structure built” for housing units is 1969 or less
 - 3 – 70s Suburbs – Any precinct defined as suburban in SIZEPLAC in which the “median year structure built” for housing units is 1970-1979
 - 4 – 80s Suburbs – Any precinct defined as suburban in SIZEPLAC in which the “median year structure built” for housing units is 1980 or higher
 - 5 – Rural – see SIZEPLAC
- ZCODE3 Suburban by proximity to principal city and population growth
- 1 – Urban Core – see Urban definition in SIZEPLAC
 - 2 – Urban Perimeter – Any precinct defined as suburban in SIZEPLAC which is seven miles or less from a principal city of an MSA
 - 3 – Low-growth Suburban Perimeter – Any precinct defined as suburban in SIZEPLAC which is more than seven miles from a principal city of an MSA and in which the population grew less than 20% between 1990 and 2002
 - 4 – High-growth Suburban Perimeter – Any precinct defined as suburban in SIZEPLAC which is more than seven miles from a principal city of an MSA and in which the population grew 20% or more between 1990 and 2002
 - 5 –Rural – see SIZEPLAC

ZCODE1 is an attempt to define urban, suburban and rural precincts without relying on MSAs or principal cities and thus provides different definitions than the SIZEPLAC variable. ZCODE2 and ZCODE3 use the definitions in SIZEPLAC but attempt to identify exurbs and other subgroups of suburban precincts based on additional data not found in SIZEPLAC.

ZCODE4	Socio-economic status of zip code
	1 – Very upscale – Top 25% in each state on socioeconomic scale
	2 – Upscale – Next-highest 25% in each state on socioeconomic scale
	3 – Downscale – Next-highest 25% in each state on socioeconomic scale
	4 – Very downscale – Lowest 25% in each state on socioeconomic scale

Socioeconomic status scale was defined using income and education data from the Census for each zip code in the U.S. Two variables were chosen – median income and percent population over the age of 25 with a bachelor's degree or higher. Zip codes were sorted by state, then rank-order into percentiles for the income variable and again for the college variable. This produces two scores for each zip code, each with a possible value of 1 to 100. The two scores were multiplied to produce a third score with a possible value of 1 to 10,000. These zip codes were again sorted by state and rank-order into percentiles.

g. The Race Question

As in previous years, the national questionnaire and the questionnaire in several states contained two separate questions on race and ethnicity. When using these data sets, researchers should not use either question for analysis, but instead should use the variable named RACE (column 30), which combines the answers to both questions.

On all questionnaires, Question B asked respondents to describe their race as White, Black, Hispanic, Asian or other. On both versions of the national and in states with Hispanic populations of five percent or more, a second question asked whether the respondent was of Hispanic descent. For the 2006 general election, these states were: Arizona, California, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Rhode Island, Texas, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

Answers from question B and the Hispanic descent question were combined to produce a variable called RACE in the following way:

Response to Question B	Response to HISPANIC/LATINO	Value assigned to the RACE variable
1 (White)	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
2 (Black)	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
3 (Hispanic/ Latino)	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
4 (Asian)	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
5 (American Indian)	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
6 (Other)	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
Blank	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
1 (White)	2 (No)	1 (White)
2 (Black)	2 (No)	2 (Black)
3 (Hispanic/ Latino)	2 (No)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
4 (Asian)	2 (No)	4 (Asian)
5 (American Indian)	2 (No)	5 (American Indian)
6 (Other)	2 (No)	6 (Other)
Blank	2 (No)	Blank
1 (White)	Blank	1 (White)
2 (Black)	Blank	2 (Black)
3 (Hispanic/ Latino)	Blank	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
4 (Asian)	Blank	4 (Asian)
5 (American Indian)	Blank	5 (American Indian)
6 (Other)	Blank	6 (Other)
Blank	Blank	Blank

This recoding was done to better identify Hispanic voters who may have answered “White” or some other race on Question B. In Florida, responses “1” and “2” were coded the same as response “1” to Latino, Mexican or Spanish, and response “3” was treated the same as response “2” to Latino, Mexican or Spanish.

In most of those states the separate question on Hispanic descent is called LATINO. It reads, “Are you of Hispanic or Latino descent?” and uses a yes or no response set. A different question was used in Florida. In Florida, it was called CUBAN3 and read, “Are you of Cuban or Hispanic descent?” This variable includes two codes which indicate that the respondent is of Hispanic descent (1=Yes, Cuban and 2=Yes, other Hispanic). The “No” answer in Florida is code 3, not code 2.

h. Changes from 2002/2004 variables

In order to standardize the questions on race and ethnic background , the 2006 exit polls asked these questions the same way in virtually every state. In most states, this represents a change from how these questions were handled in previous years.

QRACEAI (Question B)

In previous elections, code 5 was assigned to the "Other" category in most states, but was assigned to "American Indian" in seven states -- Arizona, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota and Wyoming. In Alaska, code 5 was assigned to "Alaska native" and in Hawaii code 5 was assigned to "Native Hawaiian." In these nine states, the "Other" category was assigned to code 6, not code 5.

In the 2006 exit polls, code 5 was assigned to "American Indian," "Alaska native," or "Native Hawaiian" in ALL states and code 6 was assigned to "Other" in ALL states. This Race question is called "QRACEAI".

The following chart indicates the changes made in 2006:

	PREVIOUS YEARS	2006
Code 5 = American Indian Code 6 = Other	Arizona, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Wyoming	All states except Alaska and Hawaii
Code 5 = Alaska Native Code 6 = Other	Alaska	Alaska
Code 5 = Native Hawaiian Code 6 = Other	Hawaii	Hawaii
Code 5 = Other No code 6	All other states	No states

HISPANIC

In previous elections, the wording of the question on Hispanic descent varied from state to state. In Arizona, California, Colorado and Texas, the separate Hispanic question, called MEXICAN, read, "Are you of Mexican or Hispanic descent?" with a yes or no response set. In New Mexico, the question, called SPANISH, read, "Are you of Spanish, Mexican or Hispanic descent?" with a yes or no response set. In all other states in which the question was asked, the question, called LATINO, read, "Are you of Hispanic or Latino descent?"

In 2006 the wording of this question was consistent in all states in which a question on Hispanic descent appeared. The question was called LATINO and the wording in each of these states was "Are you of Hispanic or Latino descent?"

The one exception was Florida where, as noted previously, the question included separate options for Cubans and for non-Cuban Hispanics.

The following chart indicates the changes made in 2006:

	2004	2006
"Are you of Hispanic or Latino descent?" 1=Yes 2=No	Connecticut, D.C., Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Massachusetts, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, Utah, Washington, Wyoming	Arizona, California, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Rhode Island, Texas, Utah, Washington, Wyoming
"Are you of Mexican or Hispanic descent?" 1=Yes 2=No	Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, Texas	No states
"Are you of Spanish, Mexican or Hispanic descent?" 1=Yes 2=No	New Mexico	No states
"Are you of Cuban or Hispanic descent?" 1=Yes, Cuban 2=Yes, other Hispanic 3=No	Florida	Florida

IV. National Survey

The information in this section applies only to the national survey.

a. Design

A sample of exit poll precincts was drawn from each of the thirty-two states listed in section II. A subsample of these precincts was selected to form the national sample. In addition a sample of precincts was selected in the eighteen states without state surveys to be included in the national sample. Respondents in the national precincts were given one of two versions of the national questionnaire. The two versions were interleaved on pads that were handed out to respondents. Responses to the two versions are combined into one dataset. All versions have questions in common as well as questions unique to each version.

Version numbers were located in two places on the front of each questionnaire, in the header in the upper right corner and in the footer in the bottom right corner. Version numbers are included in the dataset as noted above. To determine which questions are on which version of the questionnaire, simply crosstab each question by "Version" (found in column 14 in the ascii dataset). All questions which do not appear on a particular version are entered as system missing in the SPSS file and are blank in the ascii dataset.

Generic versions of the national questionnaires are included in .PDF form. The national questionnaire used in each state included the appropriate candidates in the statewide races. For the House vote, in states with one, at-large, congressional district or where all the national precincts were in the same congressional district, candidate names were printed on the questionnaire. The at-large states were Alaska, Delaware, Montana and North Dakota, and those with only one congressional district in the sample were Arkansas (CD 2), Maine (CD 1), Nebraska (CD 3), Nevada (CD 3), New Mexico (CD 1), Mississippi (CD 4) and Rhode Island (CD 1). In all other states, the House candidates were listed on the questionnaire as "The Democratic candidate" and "The Republican candidate" but interviewers were provided with separate cards with the names of the Democratic and Republican U.S. House candidate to use to inform the respondents of the names of the candidates in their particular precinct.

b. Breaking news

On version 2 of the national questionnaire, a question was set aside that would allow the National Election Pool to ask about late breaking news events. On the Sunday before the election, interviewers were instructed to write in "The Saddam Verdict" on the blank line on each version 2 questionnaire that had been sent to them for use on November 7. The question looked like this:

[L] In your vote for U.S. House, how important was _____?

- 1 ☐ Extremely important
- 2 ☐ Very important
- 3 ☐ Somewhat important
- 4 ☐ Not at all important

The purpose of this question was to allow the National Election Pool to have an exit poll question about an event that occurred as late as the Sunday before an election, even though the questionnaires had been printed about a week before the election occurred.

In the national SPSS dataset, this variable is labeled “Break06” and can be found in column 62 of the ascii dataset. This question was not asked of absentee phone poll respondents.

c. Additional Item

This item, not on the questionnaire, was added to the national data file:

Short Label	Description
--------------------	--------------------

REGION	Geographic region: (See included list of state numbers and region codes for further detail) 1= East 2= Midwest 3= South 4= West
--------	---

d. Absentee/Early Voter Survey

Edison Media Research/Mitofsky International conducted pre-election telephone interviews in states with a high proportion voters who said they voted by mail using an absentee ballot or voted in-person at an early voting location. Absentee or early voters were asked the same questions asked at the polling place on Election Day with the exception of the “breaking news” question and the “time of decision” question.

On election day, the results from the absentee/early voter telephone surveys were combined with the data from the exit polls conducted that day in a way that made sure those two groups were represented in the data in the same proportion as they were in the actual vote totals.

A variable in each of these files indicates whether the respondent was interviewed as part of the election day exit poll or the telephone/early exit poll, called TELEPOLL (column 17).

A total of 1,478 telephone interviews were conducted. The states where absentee/early voters were interviewed for the National exit poll are: Arizona, California, Florida, Michigan, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Tennessee, Texas and Washington state. Absentee voters in these states made up 16% of the total national vote in the 2004 presidential election. Another 6% of the 2004 total vote was cast absentee in other states in 2004 and where there is no absentee/early voter telephone poll. Note that since all voters in Oregon and nearly all voters in Washington cast their ballots by mail, there were no election day interviews in Oregon and Washington. The only interviews included from Oregon and Washington are from the telephone survey of absentee and early voters.

Interviewing Service of America conducted the fieldwork for the national telephone survey. Households were selected using random-digit dialing, and a respondent was randomly selected within each household. Interviewing began on October 27, 2006 and concluded on November 5, 2006. Before the telephone survey results were combined with the exit poll data they were weighted to reflect the probabilities of selection and to reflect demographic characteristics in that state. The demographic weighting was based on all respondents 18 years of age or older selected in the sample regardless of whether they voted absentee/early or not.

a. Design

As mentioned above, a sample of exit poll precincts was drawn in each state. A subsample of these precincts was selected to form the national sample. The remaining precincts in each state made up the state sample and were given questionnaires specific to that state. Because the national questionnaire has several items in common with the state questionnaire, national respondents are included in the state exit poll dataset for these common questions.

To determine which questions are on the national questionnaire, simply crosstab each question by QTYPE (found in column 13 of the ascii dataset), indicating whether the respondent completed the state or national survey. If the corresponding item did not appear on that respondent's version of the questionnaire, it was coded as system missing in the SPSS file and will appear as a blank in the ascii dataset. Remember, as noted above, some questions on the national survey appear on both versions of the national and some do not.

b. Additional Item

The following item, not on the questionnaire, was added to all of the state datasets:

Short Label	Description
--------------------	--------------------

GEOCODE	Geographic Code (2 to 6 categories): NEP-coded geographic regions within a state. See each state's attached column documentation and .PDF geocode map for further information. In states with a small number of sample precincts (less than or equal to 20), the number of precincts within each geographic code may not be sufficient to provide representation within each geographic code.

c. Absentee/Early Voter Survey

Edison Media Research/Mitofsky International conducted pre-election telephone interviews of people who said they had either already voted by mail using an absentee ballot or voted in-person at an early voting location. These interviews were conducted in nine states with large populations of absentee and early voters. In Washington state where nearly all votes are cast by mail, no election day interviews were conducted. Only telephone interviews of voters were conducted in Washington. Absentee or early voters were asked the same questions asked at the polling place on Election Day.

In addition to Washington, telephone surveys were conducted in Arizona, California, Florida, Michigan, Nevada, New Mexico, Tennessee, and Texas. In each state, the survey included voters who had either already voted absentee/early or who were likely to do so. In addition to those respondents who received the state versions of the absentee/early voter telephone surveys, the respondents in each of these states who received the national version of the absentee/early voter telephone survey are included in the state files.

These are the full sample sizes: Arizona N=679 (602 state and 77 national), California N=816 (503 state; 313 national), Florida N=716 (502 state; 214 national), Michigan N=518 (456 state; 62 national), Nevada N=740 (703 state; 37 national), New Mexico N=724 (702 state; 22 national), Tennessee N=813 (703 state; 110 national), Texas N=994 (706 state; 288 national) and Washington N=1126 (907 state; 219 national).

On election day, the results from the absentee/early voter telephone surveys were combined with the data from the exit polls conducted that day in a way that made sure those two groups were represented in the data in the same proportion as they were in the actual vote totals.

There is a variable in each of these files indicating whether the respondent was interviewed as part of the election day exit poll or the pre-election telephone poll, called TELEPOLL (column 17).

Universal Survey Center conducted the interviews for the Michigan, Texas, Washington and half of the Nevada telephone surveys.

On-Line Communications conducted the interviews for the New Mexico, Tennessee and half of the Nevada telephone surveys.

Interviewing Services of America conducted the interviews for the Arizona, California, and Florida telephone surveys.

Households in all telephone polls were selected using random-digit dialing, and a respondent was randomly selected within each household. Interviewing for the state absentee surveys began on October 27, 2006 and concluded on November 5, 2006.

Before the telephone survey results were combined with the exit poll data they were weighted to reflect the probabilities of selection and to reflect demographic characteristics in that state. The demographic weighting was based on all respondents 18 years of age or older selected in the sample regardless of whether they voted absentee/early or not.

2006 National Election Pool Exit Poll Methodology

The NEP exit polls were developed and conducted by Edison Media Research and Mitofsky International. NEP is a pool of ABC News, Associated Press, CNN, CBS News, FOX News and NBC News. The exit poll results are based on interviews with a probability sample of voters exiting polling places in each state on Election Day.

The error due to sampling for most state exit poll questions is approximately plus or minus 4 percentage points (see the sampling error table below). This means 95 times out of 100, samples like this one will have results within 4 points of what a complete count of all voters would show. Results based on part of the sample will have larger margins of error, as will groups of voters -- such as Blacks -- who are found disproportionately in some precincts.

Sampling

The samples were selected in two stages. First, a probability sample of voting precincts within each state was selected that represents the different geographic areas across the state and the partisan make-up of the state. Precincts were selected with a probability proportionate to the number of voters in each precinct. There is one exception. In some states, precincts that have large minority populations were sampled at a higher rate than other precincts. The sample weighting (described below) adjusts the representation of these precincts to their correct share of the total vote. Within each precinct, voters were sampled systematically throughout the voting day at a rate that gives all voters in a precinct the same chance of being interviewed.

Weighting

The exit poll results are weighted to reflect the complexity of the sampling design. That is, the weighting takes into account the different probabilities of selecting a precinct and of selecting a voter within each precinct. For example, minority precincts that were selected at a higher rate receive a smaller weight than other precincts of the same size. An adjustment is made for voters who were missed or refused to be interviewed, which is based on their observed age, race and gender. Respondents are also weighted based upon the size and distribution of the final tabulated vote within geographic regions of the state or of the nation.

NOTE: The exit poll results are only meaningful if they are weighted. Unweighted tabulations may be seriously misleading and should not be used for any reason.

Questions Altered over the Years

Comparing data from one election year to another should be done carefully. "Trends" are established by comparing questions that are asked in exactly the same way. Failure to exercise appropriate care could lead to invalid conclusions about voting behavior. Please consult VNS documentation about exit polls conducted between 1994 and 2002 and the Edison/Mitofsky NEP documentation from 2004 and 2006 before making comparisons between these data and previous exit polls.

Sampling Error

All samples are approximations. A measure of the approximation is called the sampling error. Sampling error is affected by the design of the sample, the characteristic being measured and the number of people who have the characteristic. The error due to sampling depends, among other things, on the number of respondents in each group. The sampling errors below are for most voter groups. There are 95 chances in 100 that a sample result is within this many percentage points of the result that would have been obtained by interviewing every voter.

The sampling error also depends on the distribution of a characteristic among precincts. If a characteristic is found in roughly the same proportions in all precincts the sampling error will be lower. If the characteristic is concentrated in a few precincts the sampling error will be larger. Gender would be a good example of a characteristic with a lower sampling error. Characteristics for minority racial groups will have larger sampling errors. For example, black or high income voters may be found clustered in only a few sample precincts. A characteristic that is clustered in a few precincts has a larger sampling error than characteristics such as sex that are not as highly clustered. Sampling error may be up to three times larger for highly clustered characteristics.

The table below lists typical sampling errors for given size subgroups for a 95% confidence interval. The values in the table should be added and subtracted from the characteristic's percentage in order to construct an interval. 95% of the intervals created this way will contain the value that would be obtained if all voters were interviewed using the same procedures. Other non-sampling factors, including nonresponse, are likely to increase the total error.

Example: If there are a total of 1,000 respondents in the sample, the sampling error on the 49% of men voting for a candidate depends on the number of men in the poll. In this example, if there are 490 men, the table below shows that if about 25% vote for a candidate, the sampling error is about plus or minus 6 percentage points.

%Error Due to Sampling (+/-) for 95% Confidence Interval
Number of Voters in Base of Percentage

National Election Pool Exit Poll Completion Rates - 2006

The following table contains the respondent completion rates for all of the exit polls conducted by the NEP in 2004 & 2006 and by VNS in 2000.

This overall completion rate is computed by averaging the completion rates in each precinct weighted by the exit poll sample weight. The precinct completion rate is equal to the number of completed questionnaires divided by the number of attempts (completed questionnaires + total refusals and misses).

For comparison purposes we have recalculated the VNS completion rates from 2000 using this formula. The completion rate for the National Sample Precincts is the weighted average completion rate for the 250 precincts used in the national sample. The completion rate for All Precincts is the average completion rate for all 1,469 precincts used in all of the state samples. The 2004 national completion rate decreased by one half of one percent since 2000. The completion rates increased in 23 states and decreased in 27 states.
