National Election Pool Exit Polls
Conducted by Edison Media Research/Mitofsky International

Documentation for the 2008 General Election Exit Polls

I. Introduction

The National Election Pool (ABC News, Associated Press, CBS News, CNN, Fox News and NBC News) sponsored exit polls for the 2008 General Elections. All decisions on question wording and question order were made by the NEP members, not Edison/Mitofsky. This document describes the exit poll datasets, explains how to access the data and how to interpret the column location documentation. It also includes information regarding the analysis of these data.

Attached are the following: a description of the “National Election Pool Exit Poll Methodology,” a list of state numbers and region codes, detailed column location information for each dataset, a map of the geostrata used in each state and the exit poll and early voter/absentee telephone survey questionnaires in .PDF format.

II. Data Files

Fifty-two data files are available – the national survey dataset, and one dataset for each state plus the District of Columbia. The data are made available as ascii files and in SPSS format. Each state includes:

- a) the ascii file (ending in .DAT)
- b) the SPSS portable file (ending in .POR)
- c) column definitions (a text document) for that state
- d) the questionnaires (exit poll and early voter/absentee telephone questionnaires where used)
- e) geostrata map for that state

III. All Surveys

The information in this section applies to the national and all of the state surveys.

a. Weights

Respondent weights are included with each data file. They can be found in columns 18 through 23 of each file. These weights should be applied in all analyses. Unweighted tabulations are seriously misleading and must not be used for any reason. In the SPSS data file, these values can be found under the variable label WGT.

For additional information on weighting, see the methodology statement at the end of this file.

b. Backside Variable

One key variable, known as the "backside" variable, exists on all surveys that used a two-sided questionnaire. It can be found in column 16 in all applicable states. [Please note that some state surveys used a one-sided questionnaire and thus do not include the "backside" variable.] When BACKSIDE = 1, there was at least one response on the reverse side of the questionnaire, indicating that the respondent turned the questionnaire over. This allows the researcher who is analyzing a question that appears on the backside to omit respondents who did not turn the questionnaire over. For all respondents where BACKSIDE = 2, responses to any question that appeared on page 2 of the questionnaire are coded as system missing in the SPSS file and are blank in the ascii file.

c. Blanks/Omits

Item non-response is attributable to several different causes and is handled in the data in different ways. The attached files apply the following policies for coding omits so that the results match those published by the National Election Pool:

1. Some questions did not appear on telephone polls of absentee or early voters. Respondents who voted in person on November 4, 2008, for example, were asked the question labeled BREAK08 (see section "IV.b." below.) This question was added to the questionnaire on the Sunday before election day after almost all of the absentee/early voter telephone interviews were completed so this question did not appear in the telephone survey.

For voters interviewed by telephone before election day, a blank appears in the ascii data and a missing value appears in the SPSS file for every question which did not appear on the telephone poll.

2. Some questions did not appear on every version of the exit poll used for in-person interviews on election day. For example, there were four versions of the national questionnaire and many questions appeared on only one or two of those four versions.

For voters interviewed in person on election day, a blank appears in the ascii data and a missing value appears in the SPSS file for every question which did not appear on the version assigned to the respondent.

3. Some respondents only answered questions on the front side of the exit poll and did not turn the instrument over. Respondents did not answer the question because they did not read it. This phenomenon has been discussed in section "III.b." above.

For voters interviewed in person on election day who did not turn the questionnaire over, a blank appears in the ascii data and a missing value appears in the SPSS file for every question on the backside of that questionnaire.

4. Some respondents read the question but chose not to answer it. This can be interpreted as a standard "don't know" response. However, the exit polls have historically treated this in different ways depending on the subject matter of the question.

On most demographic variables (such as age), all blanks have been set to a missing code in the SPSS files and appear as blanks in the ascii data.

On opinion variables (such as approval ratings), blanks are treated as "Don't Know" responses and are considered to be valid responses. They have been recoded as the numeral nine ("9") in the SPSS files and in the ascii data.

Note, however, that different rules apply if the variable called BACKSIDE has a value of "2". If no questions were answered on the backside, all backside questions have been set to a missing code in the SPSS files and appear as blanks in the ascii data.

d. Language

In eight states, questionnaires in Spanish as well as in English were available in every precinct in which Hispanics represented 20% or more of the total population. Spanish language questionnaires were available in some precincts in Arizona, California, Florida, Illinois, Nevada, New Mexico, New York and Texas. In the data sets for these eight states and in the national data set, the variable SPANISHQ (column 78) indicates the language of the questionnaire the respondent completed.

e. Additional Items

These items, not on the questionnaire, were added to all data files:

--------------------	--------------------

BACKSIDE	Completed Backside of Exit Poll: (all states using a two-sided questionnaire) 1=Yes 2= No
CALL	Call Number: (Each interviewer reports results at three separate times during election day by making a telephone call to a central facility. This variable indicates whether the questionnaire was entered during the first telephone call – usually late morning; second telephone call – usually mid-afternoon; or third telephone call – usually shortly before the polls close.) 1= First call 2= Second call 3= Third call 9= Absentee telephone survey
STANUM	State Number (See attached state list)
PRECINCT	EMR/MI Internal Precinct Number; this number does not match the official precinct name or number.
ID	Respondent ID number
WGT	Respondent weight
QTYPE	Questionnaire type: (Each state's datafile contains respondents from both the national and state questionnaires; The national datafile contains only national questionnaires. Note that in 2008 all exit poll precincts in California, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts and New York used the national questionnaires.) 1 = State questionnaire 2 = National questionnaire
VERSION	Questionnaire version number (All state questionnaires are version 1; National questionnaires include versions 1 through 4)
SPANISHQ	Language of questionnaire 1= Spanish 2= English
CDNUM	Congressional district number

f. Urbanity Codes

As in previous years, precincts are assigned to urban, suburban, or rural classifications based on Census Bureau definitions of Metropolitan Statistical Areas (MSAs) and principal cities.

SIZEPLAC Size of Area (5 Categories)

- | | |
|---|--------------------------------------|
| 1 - Principal Cities over 500,000 | 4 - Principal Cities 10,000 - 50,000 |
| 2 - Principal Cities 50,000 - 500,000 | 5 - Rural |
| 3 - Suburbs (precinct is in an MSA but not in a principal city) | |

SIZEPLC3 Size of Area (3 Categories -- a regrouping of the five-categories in SIZEPLAC)

- 1 - Principal Cities over 50,000
- 2 - Suburbs (precinct is in an MSA but not in the central city)
- 3 - Small Cities/Rural

The two variables – SIZEPLAC, and SIZEPLC3 – retain the same coding structure that Voter News Service (VNS) used in previous years, but the codes were assigned using a different procedure. Edison/Mitofsky collected the ZIP code of each precinct in its state and national samples and matched that ZIP code to a data set that showed whether that ZIP code is assigned to a principal city or to another portion of an MSA and the population of the city or town that the ZIP code is assigned to. If a precinct falls within the central or principal city of an MSA, SIZEPLAC is coded “1”, “2”, or “4” based on the population. If it falls within an MSA but not in the central or principal city, it is coded “3”, and if it does not fall within an MSA, it is coded “5”.

Additional data is available from the Census Bureau at the ZIP code level, and to take advantage of this data, several experimental variables were added to the data set in 2006. The following four variables were developed by Keating Holland of CNN, using the ZIP code of each precinct as follows:

ZCODE1 Urban/Suburban/Rural by Population Density

- 1 – Extremely High Density Urban – Any precinct in a zip code with a population density of more than 7,000 people per square mile
- 2 – High Density – Any precinct in a zip code with a population density between 3,500 and 6,999 people per square mile
- 3 – Suburb – Any precinct in a zip code with a population density between 200 and 3,499 people per square mile that is within 40 miles of a large city or within 20 miles of a small city
- 4 – Town – Any precinct in a zip code with a population density between 200 and 3,499 people per square mile that is not a suburb.
- 5 – Low Density Rural – Any precinct in a zip code with a population density between 50 and 199 people per square mile
- 6 – Extremely Low Density Rural – Any precinct in a zip code with a population density of less than 50 people per square mile

- ZCODE2 Suburbs subdivided by data on age of housing stock from U.S. Census
- 1 – Urban – see SIZEPLAC
 - 2 – 60s Suburbs – Any precinct defined as suburban in SIZEPLAC in which the “median year structure built” for housing units is 1969 or less
 - 3 – 70s Suburbs – Any precinct defined as suburban in SIZEPLAC in which the “median year structure built” for housing units is 1970-1979
 - 4 – 80s Suburbs – Any precinct defined as suburban in SIZEPLAC in which the “median year structure built” for housing units is 1980 or higher
 - 5 – Rural – see SIZEPLAC
- ZCODE3 Suburban by proximity to principal city and population growth
- 1 – Urban Core – see Urban definition in SIZEPLAC
 - 2 – Urban Perimeter – Any precinct defined as suburban in SIZEPLAC which is seven miles or less from a principal city of an MSA
 - 3 – Low-growth Suburban Perimeter – Any precinct defined as suburban in SIZEPLAC which is more than seven miles from a principal city of an MSA and in which the population grew less than 20% between 1990 and 2002
 - 4 – High-growth Suburban Perimeter – Any precinct defined as suburban in SIZEPLAC which is more than seven miles from a principal city of an MSA and in which the population grew 20% or more between 1990 and 2002
 - 5 – Rural – see SIZEPLAC

ZCODE1 is an attempt to define urban, suburban and rural precincts without relying on MSAs or principal cities and thus provides different definitions than the SIZEPLAC variable. ZCODE2 and ZCODE3 use the definitions in SIZEPLAC but attempt to identify exurbs and other subgroups of suburban precincts based on additional data not found in SIZEPLAC.

- ZCODE4 Socio-economic status of zip code
- 1 – Very upscale – Top 25% in each state on socioeconomic scale
 - 2 – Upscale – Next-highest 25% in each state on socioeconomic scale
 - 3 – Downscale – Next-highest 25% in each state on socioeconomic scale
 - 4 – Very downscale – Lowest 25% in each state on socioeconomic scale

Socioeconomic status scale was defined using income and education data from the Census for each zip code in the U.S. Two variables were chosen – median income and percent population over the age of 25 with a bachelor’s degree or higher. Zip codes were sorted by state, then rank-order into percentiles for the income variable and again for the college variable. This produces two scores for each zip code, each with a possible value of 1 to 100. The two scores were multiplied to produce a third score with a possible value of 1 to 10,000. These zip codes were again sorted by state and rank-order into percentiles.

g. The Race Question

As in previous years, the national questionnaire and the questionnaire in several states contained two separate questions on race and ethnicity. When using these data sets, researchers should not use either question for analysis, but instead should use the variable named RACE (column 30), which combines the answers to both questions.

On all questionnaires, Question B (QRACEAI) asked respondents to describe their race as White, Black, Hispanic, Asian, American Indian or other. (The two exceptions are Alaska where code “5” was “Alaska Native” and Hawaii where code “5” is “Native Hawaiian” instead of “American Indian”.)

On all questionnaires, a second question asked whether the respondent was of Hispanic descent. In all states, a variable called LATINO shows whether the respondent is of Hispanic descent (code 1) or not (code 2).

Answers from question B and the Hispanic descent question were combined to produce a variable called RACE in the following way:

Response to Question B	Response to HISPANIC/LATINO	Value assigned to the RACE variable
1 (White)	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
2 (Black)	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
3 (Hispanic/ Latino)	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
4 (Asian)	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
5 (American Indian)	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
6 (Other)	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
Blank	1 (Yes)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
1 (White)	2 (No)	1 (White)
2 (Black)	2 (No)	2 (Black)
3 (Hispanic/ Latino)	2 (No)	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
4 (Asian)	2 (No)	4 (Asian)
5 (American Indian)	2 (No)	5 (American Indian)
6 (Other)	2 (No)	6 (Other)
Blank	2 (No)	Blank
1 (White)	Blank	1 (White)
2 (Black)	Blank	2 (Black)
3 (Hispanic/ Latino)	Blank	3 (Hispanic/ Latino)
4 (Asian)	Blank	4 (Asian)
5 (American Indian)	Blank	5 (American Indian)
6 (Other)	Blank	6 (Other)
Blank	Blank	Blank

This recoding was done to better identify Hispanic voters who may have answered “White” or some other race on Question B.

In all states except Florida, the question that appeared on the survey read, “Are you of Hispanic or Latino descent?” and uses a yes or no response set.

A different question, called CUBAN3, appeared on the Florida questionnaire. It read, “Are you of Cuban or Hispanic descent?” This variable includes two codes which indicate that the respondent is of Hispanic descent (1=Yes, Cuban and 2=Yes, other Hispanic). The “No” answer in Florida is code 3, not code 2. A variable called LATINO was created in Florida to match the question asked in all other states. Florida respondents who answered "1" or "2" were recoded as a "1" (Hispanic/Latino); all Florida respondents who answered "3" were recoded as a "2."

In Florida, responses “1” and “2” were coded the same as response “1” to Latino, and response “3” was treated the same as response “2” to Latino.

The 2008 general election was the first general election where the Hispanic descent question was asked separately in every state. Previously the LATINO question was only asked in states with Hispanic populations of five percent or more. For the 2006 general election, these states were: Arizona, California, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Rhode Island, Texas, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. For the 2004 general election, these states were: Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, the District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Oklahoma, Oregon, Rhode Island, Texas, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

h. Changes from 2002/2004 variables

In order to standardize the questions on race and ethnic background , the 2006 and 2008 exit polls asked these questions the same way in virtually every state. In most states, this represents a change from how these questions were handled in previous years.

QRACEAI (Question B)

In previous elections, code 5 was assigned to the "Other" category in most states, but was assigned to "American Indian" in seven states -- Arizona, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota and Wyoming. In Alaska, code 5 was assigned to "Alaska native" and in Hawaii code 5 was assigned to "Native Hawaiian." In these nine states, the "Other" category was assigned to code 6, not code 5.

In the 2006 and 2008 exit polls, code 5 was assigned to "American Indian," "Alaska Native," or "Native Hawaiian" in ALL states and code 6 was assigned to "Other" in ALL states. This Race question is called “QRACEAI”.

The following chart indicates the changes made in 2006 and 2008:

	PREVIOUS YEARS	2006/2008
Code 5 = American Indian Code 6 = Other	Arizona, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Wyoming	All states except Alaska and Hawaii
Code 5 = Alaska Native Code 6 = Other	Alaska	Alaska
Code 5 = Native Hawaiian Code 6 = Other	Hawaii	Hawaii
Code 5 = Other No code 6	All other states	No states

HISPANIC

In previous elections, the wording of the question on Hispanic descent varied from state to state. In Arizona, California, Colorado and Texas, the separate Hispanic question, called MEXICAN, read, “Are you of Mexican or Hispanic descent?” with a yes or no response set. In New Mexico, the question, called SPANISH, read, “Are you of Spanish, Mexican or Hispanic descent?” with a yes or no response set. In all other states in which the question was asked, the question, called LATINO, read, “Are you of Hispanic or Latino descent?”

In 2006 and 2008 the wording of this question was consistent in all states in which a question on Hispanic descent appeared. The question was called LATINO and the wording in each of these states was “Are you of Hispanic or Latino descent?”

The one exception was Florida where, as noted previously, the question included separate options for Cubans and for non-Cuban Hispanics.

The following chart indicates the changes made in 2006 and 2008:

	2004	2006	2008
"Are you of Hispanic or Latino descent?" 1=Yes 2=No	Connecticut, D.C., Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Massachusetts, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, Utah, Washington, Wyoming	Arizona, California, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Rhode Island, Texas, Utah, Washington, Wyoming	All states except Florida
"Are you of Mexican or Hispanic descent?" 1=Yes 2=No	Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, Texas	No states	No states
"Are you of Spanish, Mexican or Hispanic descent?" 1=Yes 2=No	New Mexico	No states	No states
"Are you of Cuban or Hispanic descent?" 1=Yes, Cuban 2=Yes, other Hispanic 3=No	Florida	Florida	Florida

TIME08

Time of decision – The response set for the question on time of decision on presidential vote is different in 2008 than it was in 2004.

2008:

When did you finally decide for whom to vote in the presidential election?

- 1 – Just today
- 2 – In the last three days
- 3 – Sometime last week
- 4 – Earlier in October
- 5 – Sometime in September
- 6 – Before that

2004:

When did you finally decide for whom to vote in the presidential election?

- 1 – Just today
- 2 – In the last three days
- 3 – Sometime last week
- 4 – During the last month
- 5 – Before that

IV. National Survey

The information in this section applies only to the national survey. Note that in 2008 all respondents in California, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts and New York answered one version of the national questionnaires.

a. Design

A sample of exit poll precincts was drawn from each of the fifty states and the District of Columbia. A subsample of these precincts was selected to form the national sample. The national survey was administered in a total of 300 sample exit poll precincts. Respondents in the national precincts were given one of four versions of the national questionnaire. The four versions were interleaved on pads that were handed out to respondents. Responses to the four versions are combined into one dataset. All versions have questions in common as well as questions unique to each version.

Version numbers were located in two places on the front of each questionnaire, in the header in the upper right corner and in the footer in the bottom right corner. Version numbers are included in the dataset as noted above. To determine which questions are on which version of the questionnaire, simply crosstab each question by “Version” (found in column 14 in the ascii dataset). All questions which do not appear on a particular version are entered as system missing in the SPSS file and are blank in the ascii dataset.

Generic versions of the national questionnaires are included in .PDF form. The national questionnaire used in each state included the appropriate candidates in the statewide races. For the House vote, in states with one, at-large, congressional district or where all the national precincts were in the same congressional district, candidate names were printed on the questionnaire. The at-large states were Alaska, Delaware, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Vermont and Wyoming. The states with only one congressional district in the sample were Idaho (CD 1), Iowa (CD 2), Maine (CD 2), Nebraska (CD 1), Nevada (CD 2), New Hampshire (CD 2), New Mexico (CD 3), and Rhode Island (CD 2). In all other states, the House candidates were listed on the questionnaire as “The Democratic candidate” and “The Republican candidate” but interviewers were provided with separate cards with the names of the Democratic and Republican U.S. House candidate to use to inform the respondents of the names of the candidates in their particular precinct.

b. Breaking news

On versions 1 and 2 of the national questionnaire, a question was set aside that would allow the National Election Pool to ask about a late breaking news event even though the questionnaires had been printed about a week before the election occurred. The questionnaire was pre-printed with a blank line that interviewers could use to write a word or phrase on the day before the election. This so-called "breaking news" format has been in use since 2000.

As in several previous elections, no news event that occurred in the final days of the campaign was deemed important enough to merit inclusion, so a question about Sarah Palin was chosen. Interviewers were instructed to write in "McCain's choice of Sarah Palin" on the blank line on each version 1 and 2 questionnaire that had been sent to them for use on November 4, 2008. The question looked like this:

[N] In your vote for president today was _____ McCain's choice of Sarah Palin _____:

- 1 ☐ The single most important factor
- 2 ☐ One of several important factors
- 3 ☐ A minor factor
- 4 ☐ Not a factor at all

In the national SPSS dataset, this variable is labeled "Break08" and can be found in column 41 of the ascii dataset. This question was not asked of absentee phone poll respondents.

Also note that the wording of the Breaking News question in 2008 was different from the Breaking News question wording used in all previous years.

c. Additional Item

This item, not on the questionnaire, was added to the national data file:

Short Label	Description
--------------------	--------------------

REGION	Geographic region: (See included list of state numbers and region codes for further detail) 1= East 2= Midwest 3= South 4= West
--------	---

d. Absentee/Early Voter Survey

Edison Media Research/Mitofsky International conducted pre-election telephone interviews for the national survey and for states surveys in states with a high proportion voters who said they voted by mail using an absentee ballot or voted in-person at an early voting location. Absentee or early voters were asked the same questions asked at the polling place on Election Day with the exception of the “breaking news” question.

In 2008 a version of the “time of decision” question (TIME08) was asked in the telephone surveys in which respondents were asked for the approximate date when they finally decided whom to vote for president and those dates were converted into the answer codes that appear on the exit poll questionnaire. In previous elections the “time of decision” question was not asked in the telephone surveys.

In 2008 the question about which type of telephone service the voter could use or be reached on (CELLULAR) was asked in both the exit poll and in the telephone survey. However, it should be noted that the telephone sample did not include a cell-phone only components so the results of this question among the telephone sample should be analyzed with that in mind. In 2004 the CELLULAR question was asked only in the exit poll questionnaire and not asked in the telephone survey.

On election day, the results from the absentee/early voter telephone surveys were combined with the data from the exit polls conducted that day in a way that made sure those two groups were represented in the data in the same proportion as they were in the actual vote totals.

A variable in each of these files indicates whether the respondent was interviewed as part of the election day exit poll or the telephone/early exit poll, called TELEPOLL (column 17).

A total of 2,378 telephone interviews were conducted nationwide. In previous elections, absentee/early voters were interviewed for the National exit poll only in states where a high proportion of votes were cast early or absentee. In 2006 the states where absentee/early voter telephone interviews were conducted for the national survey were: Arizona, California, Florida, Michigan, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Tennessee, Texas and Washington state. In 2004 the states were: Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Iowa, Michigan, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon, Tennessee, Texas and Washington state.

Note that since all voters in Oregon and nearly all voters in Colorado and Washington cast their ballots by mail or cast their votes early, there were no election day interviews in Colorado, Oregon and Washington. The only interviews included from Colorado, Oregon and Washington are from the telephone survey.

Interviewing Service of America conducted the fieldwork for the national telephone survey. Households were selected using random-digit dialing, and a respondent was randomly selected within each household. Interviewing began on October 24, 2008 and concluded on November 2, 2008. Before the telephone survey results were combined with the exit poll data they were weighted to reflect the probabilities of selection and to reflect demographic characteristics in that state. The demographic weighting was based on all respondents 18 years of age or older selected in the sample regardless of whether they voted absentee/early or not.

V. State Surveys

The information in this section applies only to the state surveys.

In 2008, state surveys were conducted in all fifty states and the District of Columbia.

a. Design

As mentioned above, a sample of exit poll precincts was drawn in each state. A subsample of these precincts was selected to form the national sample. The remaining precincts in each state made up the state sample and were given questionnaires specific to that state. Because the national questionnaire has several items in common with the state questionnaire, national respondents are included in the state exit poll dataset for these common questions.

To determine which questions are on the national questionnaire, simply crosstab each question by QTYPE (found in column 13 of the ascii dataset), indicating whether the respondent completed the state or national survey. If the corresponding item did not appear on that respondent's version of the questionnaire, it was coded as system missing in the SPSS file and will appear as a blank in the ascii dataset. Remember, as noted above, some questions on the national survey appear on multiple versions of the national and some do not. Note that in 2008 all respondents in California, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts and New York answered one version of the national questionnaires.

b. Additional Item

The following item, not on the questionnaire, was added to all of the state datasets:

Short Label	Description
---------------------------	---------------------------

GEOCODE	Geographic Code (2 to 6 categories): NEP-coded geographic regions within a state. See each state's attached column documentation and .PDF geocode map for further information. In states with a small number of sample precincts (less than or equal to 20), the number of precincts within each geographic code may not be sufficient to provide representation within each geographic code.

c. Absentee/Early Voter Survey

Edison Media Research/Mitofsky International conducted pre-election telephone interviews of people who said they had either already voted by mail using an absentee ballot or voted in-person at an early voting location. These interviews were conducted in eighteen states with large populations of absentee and early voters. In Oregon where all votes are cast by mail, no election day interviews were conducted. In Colorado and Washington state where nearly all votes are cast by mail or at early voting locations, no election day interviews were conducted. Only telephone interviews of voters were conducted in Colorado, Oregon Washington. Absentee or early voters were asked the same questions asked at the polling place on Election Day.

In addition to Colorado, Oregon and Washington, telephone surveys were conducted in Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Michigan, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, Ohio, Tennessee, and Texas. In each state, the survey included voters who had either already voted absentee/early or who were likely to do so. In addition to those respondents who received the state versions of the absentee/early voter telephone surveys, the respondents in each of these states who received the national version of the absentee/early voter telephone survey are included in the state files.

These are the full sample sizes:

State	Total interviews	State Q'naires	Nat'l Q'naires
Alaska	258	250	8
Arizona	500	450	50
Arkansas	276	250	26
California	765	0	765
Colorado	1295	1200	95
Florida	871	700	171
Georgia	389	300	89
Iowa	641	605	36
Michigan	504	454	50
Montana	301	300	1
Nevada	728	703	25
New Mexico	773	742	31
North Carolina	657	552	105
Ohio	488	400	88
Oregon	1279	1200	79
Tennessee	422	350	72
Texas	591	400	191
Washington	1328	1204	124

On election day, the results from the absentee/early voter telephone surveys were combined with the data from the exit polls conducted that day in a way that made sure those two groups were represented in the data in the same proportion as they were in the actual vote totals.

There is a variable in each of these files indicating whether the respondent was interviewed as part of the election day exit poll or the pre-election telephone poll, called TELEPOLL (column 17).

Universal Survey Center conducted the interviews for the Michigan, Nevada, North Carolina, Texas, and Washington telephone surveys.

On-Line Communications conducted the interviews for the Colorado telephone survey.

Interviewing Services of America conducted the interviews for the Arizona, California, Florida, Iowa, New Mexico and Ohio telephone surveys.

Discovery Research Group conducted the interviews for the Alaska and Montana telephone surveys.

Precision Research conducted the interviews for the Arkansas and Georgia telephone surveys.

Pacific Market Research conducted the interviews for the Oregon and Tennessee telephone surveys.

Households in all telephone polls were selected using random-digit dialing, and a respondent was randomly selected within each household. Interviewing for the state absentee surveys began on October 24, 2008 and concluded on November 2, 2008.

Before the telephone survey results were combined with the exit poll data they were weighted to reflect the probabilities of selection and to reflect demographic characteristics in that state. The demographic weighting was based on all respondents 18 years of age or older selected in the sample regardless of whether they voted absentee/early or not.

2008 National Election Pool Exit Poll Methodology

The NEP exit polls were developed and conducted by Edison Media Research and Mitofsky International. NEP is a pool of ABC News, Associated Press, CNN, CBS News, FOX News and NBC News. The exit poll results are based on interviews with a probability sample of voters exiting polling places in each state on Election Day.

The error due to sampling for most state exit poll questions is approximately plus or minus 4 percentage points (see the sampling error table below). This means 95 times out of 100, samples like this one will have results within 4 points of what a complete count of all voters would show. Results based on part of the sample will have larger margins of error, as will groups of voters -- such as Blacks -- who live disproportionately in some precincts.

Sampling

The samples were selected in two stages. First, a probability sample of voting precincts within each state was selected that represents the different geographic areas across the state and the partisan make-up of the state. Precincts were selected with a probability proportionate to the number of voters in each precinct. There is one exception. In some states, precincts that have large minority populations were sampled at a higher rate than other precincts. The sample weighting (described below) adjusts the representation of these precincts to their correct share of the total vote. Within each precinct, voters were sampled systematically throughout the voting day at a rate that gives all voters in a precinct the same chance of being interviewed.

Weighting

The exit poll results are weighted to reflect the complexity of the sampling design. That is, the weighting takes into account the different probabilities of selecting a precinct and of selecting a voter within each precinct. For example, minority precincts that were selected at a higher rate receive a smaller weight than other precincts of the same size. An adjustment is made for voters who were missed or refused to be interviewed, which is based on their observed age, race and gender. Respondents are also weighted based upon the size and distribution of the final tabulated vote within geographic regions of the state or of the nation.

NOTE: The exit poll results are only meaningful if they are weighted. Unweighted tabulations are seriously misleading and must not be used for any reason.

Questions Altered over the Years

Comparing data from one election year to another should be done carefully. "Trends" are established by comparing questions that are asked in exactly the same way. Failure to exercise appropriate care could lead to invalid conclusions about voting behavior. Please consult VNS documentation about exit polls conducted between 1994 and 2002 and the Edison/Mitofsky NEP documentation from 2004, 2006 and 2008 before making comparisons between these data and previous exit polls.

Sampling Error

All samples are approximations. A measure of the approximation is called the sampling error. Sampling error is affected by the design of the sample, the characteristic being measured and the number of people who have the characteristic. The error due to sampling depends, among other things, on the number of respondents in each group. The sampling errors below are for most voter groups. There are 95 chances in 100 that a sample result is within this many percentage points of the result that would have been obtained by interviewing every voter.

The sampling error also depends on the distribution of a characteristic among precincts. If a characteristic is found in roughly the same proportions in all precincts the sampling error will be lower. If the characteristic is concentrated in a few precincts the sampling error will be larger. Gender would be a good example of a characteristic with a lower sampling error. Characteristics for minority racial groups will have larger sampling errors. For example, black or high income voters may be found clustered in only a few sample precincts. A characteristic that is clustered in a few precincts has a larger sampling error than characteristics such as sex that are not as highly clustered. Sampling error may be up to three times larger for highly clustered characteristics.

The table below lists typical sampling errors for given size subgroups for a 95% confidence interval. The values in the table should be added and subtracted from the characteristic's percentage in order to construct an interval. 95% of the intervals created this way will contain the value that would be obtained if all voters were interviewed using the same procedures. Other non-sampling factors, including non-response, are likely to increase the total error.

Example: If there are a total of 1,000 respondents in the sample, the sampling error on the 49% of men voting for a candidate depends on the number of men in the poll. In this example, if there are 490 men, the table below shows that if about 25% vote for a candidate, the sampling error is about plus or minus 6 percentage points.

%Error Due to Sampling (+/-) for 95% Confidence Interval
Number of Voters in Base of Percentage
% Voters with Characteristic	100	101-200	201-500	501-950	951-2350	2351-5250	5251-8000	8001-15000
5% or 95%	6	5	3	2	2	1	1	1
15% or 85%	11	7	5	4	3	2	1	1
25% or 75%	13	9	6	5	3	2	2	1
50%	15	10	7	5	4	3	2	1

National Election Pool Exit Poll Completion Rates - 2008

The following table contains the respondent completion rates for all of the exit polls conducted by the NEP in 2004, 2006 and 2008 and by VNS in 2000. This overall completion rate is computed by averaging the completion rates in each precinct weighted by the exit poll sample weight. The precinct completion rate is equal to the number of completed questionnaires divided by the number of attempts (completed questionnaires + total refusals and misses).

For comparison purposes we have recalculated the VNS completion rates from 2000 using this formula. The completion rate for the National Sample Precincts is the weighted average completion rate for the 300 precincts used in the 2008 national sample. The completion rate for All Precincts is the average completion rate for all 1,337 precincts used in all of the 2008 state samples. Note that Colorado, Oregon and Washington surveys were conducted by telephone and average completion rates by precinct do not apply.
